Strengthening Partnerships: Parent–Teacher Conference at Galaxy International School

2025-11-07

At Galaxy International School, collaboration between home and school remains one of our strongest pillars. Our Parent–Teacher Conference (PTC) offered a meaningful space for parents and teachers to connect, reflect on student progress, and chart the next steps for academic and personal growth.

These conversations go beyond grades. They allow families to understand each learner's strengths, learning habits, and areas that need support. This thoughtful engagement is part of what makes Galaxy International School one of the best schools committed to nurturing confident, capable, future-ready students.

Parents gained deeper insight into classroom experiences, while teachers had the opportunity to hear from families, unify goals, and build stronger partnerships. When communication flows openly, students benefit and their path forward becomes clearer.

This commitment to shared growth reflects our identity as a leading Cambridge International School in Ghana, where strong academic standards meet genuine care for every child’s journey.

Together, we continue shaping brighter futures, one conversation at a time.

As part of the Galaxy International Girls and Boys Boarding House program, our students spent a meaningful Saturday at the Rising Star Orphanage. What began as a simple visit quickly grew into a special opportunity to share knowledge, kindness, and genuine human connection.

Throughout the day, our students read with the children, shared stories, exchanged laughter, and formed bonds that left a lasting impact on everyone involved. Each interaction reminded us of a powerful truth: knowledge grows when it is shared, and love heals when it is given freely.
